

BARZANI WITH %70

Formal Kurdistan's president Masoud Barzani has been elected one's more time with %70 percent vote as Kurdish Region's leader. Turnout was high at 78.5 percent according the

The region's powerful ruling parties (KDP) and the (PUK) has been running jointly against 23 alliances of smaller parties. A new party also challenged the ruling parties with high result of total veto's.

The Kurdistan Region successfully held historic parliamentary and presidential elections. The ballot for the president was the first direct presidential vote in the Kurdistan Region. The vote has underlined the democratic character of the Region and reinforced the process of peaceful elections through political competition.

Election Commission said the overall turnout was 78 percent. In Erbil 79 per cent of eligible voters cast a ballot, in Suleimaniah 74 percent, and in Dohuk 85 per cent. More than 90 organizations based in Iraq and/or the Kurdistan Region also participated in the observation, with more than 10,000 individuals receiving accreditation badges from The Independent High Electoral Commission

No more deal for Kirkuk!

Oil rich city Kirkuk is the main problem in the region asspecially between arabs and Kurds. Arabization of the antic city has been started during the Saddam ruled Baath regime. But, reality is nearly %65 percent of Kirkuk is with Kurdish population and Kurds never fall in compromise on Kirkuk...

UN wants a special statu for Kirkuk. Arabs wants Kirkuk for them throw the Maliki's stand. Turks wants Kirkuk with ottoman excuse. No body can wipe out Kirkuk on the map and all would see the fate of Saddam if they try so, Hassan, KDP's senior official in Kirkuk said. We as all the Kurdish components say that the time of threats is over and everything would be resolved through constitution, he added.

TURKEY WILL OPEN 2 CONSULATE FOR KURDISTAN

Turkey will open 2 consulate in Kurdistan region. The former Turkish MP Inal Batu said Turkey needs to open in each Erbil and Sulaimaniya a consulate to get information on the ground directly. Batu, retired Turkish ambassador and member of People Republican Party, asked why Turkey has not opened yet consulates in Kurdistan Region. He told Haber Turk TV that the Kurdish elections ran democratically and Turkey is not able yet to get information from its consulates there.

"Kerkûk is Kurdistan"

French Le Figaro wrote, there would be a coming problem between Kurds and arabs because of Kirkuk city. Figaro pointed out that, beacuse of the oil and gas control, region will be a big conflict area esspecially Baghdat and Erbil tie almost could be finished after the Kurdish election.

Figaro, said, "a city ready for explode" for Kirkuk.

Kurdish side seems to never give comprise aout issu and they want everythink should take place on the direction of Iraq's constitution.

Paragraph 140 point on Kirkuk should be beleongs to Kurdish regional Government. But, arabs and Maliki never agree with, arabs side seems very angree with Kurdish. Turkey, Iran, Syria watch the situation very carefully.

Clinton points Nuclear Aim of Iran again

Secretary of State Clinton warned Iran and said, "You have a right to pursue the peaceful use of civil, nuclear power," she Iran directly. "You do not have a right to obtain a nuclear weapon. You do not have the right to have the full enrichment and reprocessing cycle under your control. But there's a lot that we can do with Iran if Iran accepts what is the international consensus."
